Uma Após Uma as Ondas Apressadas

Uma após uma as ondas apressadas
Enrolam o seu verde movimento
E chamam a alva 'spuma
No moreno das praias.

Uma após uma as nuvens vagarosas
Rasgam o seu redondo movimento
E o sol aquece o 'spaço
Do ar entre as nuvens 'scassas.

Indiferente a mim e eu a ela,
A natureza deste dia calmo
Furta pouco ao meu senso
De se esvair o tempo.

Só uma vaga pena inconseqüente
Pára um momento à porta da minha alma
E após fitar-me um pouco
Passa, a sorrir de nada.

One After Another, Hard-pressed Waves

One after another, hard-pressed waves
Curl in their green motion
And hiss white foam into
The brownness of sea shores.

Leisurely clouds one after the other
Break open their round motion
And sun burns the air space between the scanty clouds.

Indifferent to me, as I to her,
This fair day's disposition
Takes little from my sense of time evaporating.

Only a vague inconsequential ache
Halts a moment at the portal of my soul
And, after staring briefly at me,
Passes on, smiling at nothing.

Ricardo Reis, in "Odes" (1918)
(Heterônimo de Fernando Pessoa)
